Introduction

By Todd Adams

10 years ago……

the green light was given to create a new office at Duke that would serve students and the many constituencies found across the Greek community. At that time, I had the good fortune to work with students, alumni, and staff to open the place we now know as the Office of Fraternity & Sorority Life. The road was not without bumps those first few years, but now I can say – and we all can see – that the efforts were worthwhile; our sororities and fraternities have a home for their governing councils, student leaders have quality advisement, and the office provides a hub and support for the myriad activities that the community undertakes annually. Many of the thoughts that follow have been shared before, but I welcome the opportunity to revisit them as we celebrate a decade past and look to the future.

I don’t think I’m exaggerating when I say, that, now more than ever, Greek life plays a prominent role at Duke. Today we have 42 organizations representing more than 2,200 students. The Greek experience has been and continues to be centered on four distinct yet intertwining principles: academic success, leadership education, service to others, and meaningful relationships, all of which are cornerstones of the University Mission Statement. Duke Greek students engage in all facets of campus life, fully participating in the University community while enjoying the benefits of their life-long affiliations.

Perhaps not surprisingly, students and alumni often feel that Duke is constantly – even unnecessarily – increasing expectations of its fraternity and sorority chapters. Through the work of dedicated Fraternity & Sorority Life staff, alumni advisors, and inter/national staff, a foundation is being laid for the continuation and growth of the Duke Greek community. Over the last decade, many colleges and universities, as well as inter/national offices, have sought to more clearly define and articulate the connections between institutions, headquarter offices, alumni and undergraduate chapters. At Duke, the product of such work is the Greek Relationship Statement – signed by all of the chapter presidents in 2010 with the support of the Duke University Greek Alumni Council. With these collaborations, Duke formalized and secured its ongoing relationship with fraternal organizations.

Since the Office of Fraternity & Sorority Life opened in 2002, several new and re-chartered chapters have (re)joined our ranks, the Inter-Greek Council (IGC) was formed, and the Order of Omega was constituted and now hosts the annual Greek Leadership Awards Banquet honoring the best in our community. As a fraternity alumnus, I feel strongly that the Greek experience can be one of the most significant and beneficial in students’ collegiate careers, and its rewards can reach far beyond time spent as undergraduates. However, its value today has come into question, and rightly so. As recent incidents have illustrated, acts of violence, the objectification of others, and the abuses of alcohol and other drugs are still all too common in fraternities and sororities, however infrequent the occurrences are. In order to address these issues, we must act quickly and prudently with the leadership that our founders showed when they formed our organizations so many years ago.

This vision can only be realized with the commitment of many people and organizations, and all involved must share the ownership. As a community our challenge is to provide the highest quality student experience while supporting the University’s mission. Duke University President Richard Brodhead has spoken of “the good of this place” when discussing the nature and value of higher education, and he authored a book of his essays and speeches under that very title. The progress and ultimate value of fraternities and sororities will not and should not be measured by the short-term successes and failures that are certain to occur, but are more accurately reflected in the long-term impact of membership – just ask the thousands of alumni who participated in Greek life as undergraduates.

The good of this place, the relatively young, aspiring and evolving Duke, is strongly connected with Greek life for many current and former students. Their Greek involvement shaped them – their values and beliefs – and has arguably framed their undergraduate experiences by challenging them to be active learners, agents of change and, yes, even socially responsible. Our alumni serve as examples of the sustaining, positive influence that Greek life can have when it is done well, as an integrated part of the institution. In the decade ahead, the University must strive to leverage the benefits of fraternity and sorority life – its significant history and traditions dating back to the establishment of Phi Beta Kappa – while looking to secure the future for a strong and vibrant Greek community at this good place called Duke.

Greek Convocation

Greek Chapter Presidents and the four Council Presidents (front)
Starting in 2010, Greek Convocation has now become a new tradition for Greeks at Duke, serving to welcome fraternity and sorority members back to campus and to challenging them to make the most of their Greek experience in the coming school year. In Fall 2011, attendees brought donations for the Ronald McDonald House of Durham and Greek Convocation began with a special performance by Duke’s renowned a cappella group, The Pitchforks. Throughout the event students listened to addresses from their Greek council presidents and from a special guest speaker. This past year, executive director of Duke Engage, Eric Mlyn, spoke and charged students to increase their involvement in service to the Duke, Durham, and global community, encouraging them to consider programs like Duke Engage, because of the opportunities that such experiences offer for personal growth, and the enrichment that they lend to the undergraduate experience.

5th Annual Inter-Greek Council Blaze the Stage Stroll Show

Blaze the Stage was the highlight of the fall semester as members of all four governing councils joined together to perform sensational strolls for an energetic audience in Page Auditorium. Winners of this year's show included Delta Sigma Theta/Alpha Delta Pi and Delta Sigma Iota/Alpha Tau Omega. This event has become the Greek collaboration event of the year as an NPHC or IGC chapter is charged with teaching an IFC or Panhel group how to stroll. During the teaching process the students learn about each other and their fraternity/sorority experience. The IGC Stroll Show has led to a greater connection across Greek councils, increasing understanding of the unique Greek experiences of students from different chapters. Blaze the Stage brings the Greek community together like few other events and we are proud of the IGC for continuing to make it such a successful and highly anticipated event each year. We are looking forward to next year's show!
Pi Alpha Phi National Fraternity

There is lots of exciting news to report concerning Duke's Greek scene, the first of which is the arrival of Pi Alpha Phi National Fraternity! As the newest fraternity to join Duke's Inter-Greek Council, Pi Alpha Phi colonized during late Spring 2012 and will be on campus in full effect beginning in Fall 2012.

Pi Alpha Phi was founded in 1929 at the University of California, Berkeley and was the first Asian American interest fraternity. The colony at Duke is composed of five founding members including Richard Cao, Seongik Kang, Jun Hong Kim, James Wei, and David Le, who is serving as the chapter's first president. IGC on Central Campus

There is yet more to be excited about come Fall 2012 and it has to do with Greek housing! IGC and Panhel are looking forward to a first this fall and for the IGC this means a house on Central Campus where members from each chapter will live together, with a commons room for socializing, and opportunities for interaction and connectedness between chapters that would not be possible without a dedicated living space.

Kappa Sigma Fraternity

The IGC was not the only council to expand its ranks this past year. During the Spring 2012 semester, the Interfraternity Council welcomed the return of Kappa Sigma Fraternity by approving recognition of the chapter on Duke’s campus. After an absence of ten years, we are excited to announce that Kappa Sigma is officially back and will undoubtedly hit the ground running come Fall 2012.

Kappa Sigma Fraternity was founded on December 10, 1869 at the University of Virginia. The Ideals of Kappa Sigma are as follows: to enhance the educational mission of the host institution, to promote the ideal of Brotherhood, to actively contribute to the personal growth and development of its members, to promote ethical behavior and decision-making, and to encourage service to others. We are excited to have Kappa Sigma back at Duke and look forward to the positive contributions that Kappa Sigma will make to the IFC, as well as to the broader Greek and Duke communities. IFC New Member Reception

This past Spring, the Interfraternity Council hosted a reception for new members at the Washington Duke Inn & Golf Club following the formal recruitment period. The reception was an opportunity for new members to mingle, to meet current IFC executive officers, and to hear addresses from both the outgoing and incoming IFC presidents. New members also heard from special guest speaker, Charlie Eitel (Sigma Nu), who talked about the role that fraternity membership has played in his life, encouraging the new members to make the most of their fraternal experience, and sharing some inspirational words from his book, “84 Quotes”.
Zach Prager (T, 12), former president of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity chapter at Duke, received the Robertson Outstanding Undergraduate award, the order's highest award. Prager, who was noted for his work in risk management, anti-hazing efforts, his IFC leadership and many other accomplishments while on campus, said that being president of his chapter while at Duke was "without a doubt the greatest experience of my life."

During his acceptance speech at the PIKE 68th International Convention said that looking back on his chapter presidency, he realized that he had switched from focusing on himself, to focusing on others. "Being president of my chapter was not about me…but about everyone around me."

Prager admitted he was jealous of those still in school, for the opportunity that lay before them. "I want to challenge all of you in this room to step outside your comfort zone and get involved."

View Prager's speech here, beginning at 11:30 into the presentation.

IFC on Central Campus

As you may know, the majority of IFC fraternities have historically lived in sections located on Duke's West Campus, but as our Greek community continues to grow, the University has expanded Greek housing to accommodate more chapters, while at the same time incorporating for space for non-Greek selective living groups (SLGs). This change comes along with Duke's return to a house model, meaning that with the start the Fall 2012 semester, Greek housing at Duke will take on a slightly new look. Duke's IFC fraternities will retain a number of their traditional sections on West Campus, while the chapters that leave West move to newly renovated sections on Central Campus. We are excited about the opportunities that the house model offers to our students and look forward to the new look of Greek housing at Duke!

Panhellenic Apartments on Central

Fall of 2010 marked the first time in Duke history that members of Panhellenic sororities were given designated space to live on campus. Alyssa Dack and Casey Miller of Alpha Delta Pi and Pi Beta Phi, respectively, worked to make this a reality. Beginning in Fall 2012, the administration’s implementation of the house model for all selective living groups has made it possible for all nine Panhellenic sororities to have sections of their own on Central Campus.

Led by Panhellenic President, Jenny Ngo, the Panhellenic Executive Board and the nine chapter presidents were able to work with the administration to achieve an equitable and affective vision of what sorority housing at Duke should look like. The selection process for section locations was determined utilizing information submitted by the chapters, including chapter preferences, chapter size, and the number of women from each chapter who desired to live in their chapter section. This is a true landmark event for Duke’s sororities; the debate over sorority housing has continued on and off throughout several decades of Duke history. Now, finally, in 2012, we have seen sorority housing at Duke truly take shape. As the new school year approaches, we are excited for our women and the new opportunities and experiences that sorority housing will make possible for them.
Panhellic Association Fashion Show: Fashion for a Cause

We are all, at the very least, aware of fashion (or to our lack-there-of) to varying extents, yet this past Fall semester Panhel showed Duke that they truly have style. Panhel and Duke’s fashion magazine, FORM, collaborated with Circle of Sisterhood to host the first annual Panhellenic fashion show. The nine Panhel presidents walked the runway at Metro 8 Steak House in Durham wearing fashions from designer, Ann Taylor, and formal wear donated by clothing company, Rent the Runway. Congratulations to the planning team of Jessica Stark (FORM, Zeta Tau Alpha), Megan Arrias (Panhel Philanthropy Chair, Zeta Tau Alpha), Caroline Long (FORM, Kappa Kappa Gamma), and Kate Pobuda (FORM, Kappa Alpha Theta) for their hard work at making this event a huge success.

Proceeds from the show went to benefit Circle of Sisterhood, a sorority-based foundation who’s cause is to “leverage the collective wisdom and influence of sorority women to support entities around the world that remove educational barriers for girls and women, uplifting them from poverty and oppression”. NPHC Week 2011

Duke’s NPHC is always up to good things, and this past year was no different. The NPHC began the year with its annual NPHC Week, kicking off with a unity meeting for NPHC members. The council went on to host events including Black Greek 101, the Black Women’s and Black Men’s Gatherings, and a cookout and Stroll-Off on East Campus, co-hosted by Duke’s Black Student Alliance (BSA) and the Students of the Caribbean Association (SOCA). The culmination of NPHC Week 2011 came with the Daze of Kaos Back to School Bash on Saturday night and community service on Sunday at the Spring Arbor Retirement Home in Durham.

Duke NPHC 5/10 Conference

On 5/10 or May 10th, 1930, the National Pan-Hellenic Council was founded as a permanent organization at Howard University in Washington, DC, with the following charter members: Omega Psi Phi and Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternities, and Alpha Kappa Alpha, Delta Sigma Theta, and Zeta Phi Beta Sororities. The next year, in 1931, Alpha Phi Alpha and Phi Beta Sigma Fraternities joined the Council. Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority joined in 1937 and Iota Phi Theta Fraternity completed the list of member organizations in 1997.

The stated purpose and mission of the organization in 1930 was “Unanimity of thought and action as far as possible in the conduct of Greek letter collegiate fraternities and sororities, and to consider problems of mutual interest to its member organizations.”

The 5/10 Conference was established at Duke University in Spring 2012 with the overarching goal of mobilizing leadership among college-affiliated NPHC chapters in the Raleigh/Durham/Chapel Hill region to ensure that the communities’ National Pan-Hellenic Councils are committed to serving and are being adequately served.

BSAI Step Show 2012

In March, the NPHC hosted their annual Step Show as part of BSAI weekend, which is always a large draw, both for visiting students members of Duke’s student body. The show took place in Page Auditorium and where audience members watched a great show and were invited to show of their own dance moves on-stage during judges’ scoring breaks. Unfortunately, only two chapters can receive the final honor of being crowned Step Show Champion, and this year the well-deserved winners were the sisters of Delta Sigma Theta, Sorority, Inc. and the brothers of Phi Beta Sigma, Fraternity, Inc. We look forward to watching them defend their titles during the coming school year.

Don't miss the 2012 NPHC Homecoming Step Show on Friday, September 21 (http://homecoming.dukealumni.com) in Page Auditorium!

The event was well attended by members of all four governing councils and a wide variety of Duke staff members. Dinner, as tradition, was delicious Greek food catered by Spartacus Restaurant. The Order of Omega did a wonderful job with this event thanks to the hard work of Kelly Anne Tully (Pi Beta Phi) and Lucy Yao (Kappa Phi Lambda) who served as the President and Assistant Vice President at Large for the Order during the 2011-2012 school year. The ladies also had fantastic assistance from their committee and the Order Executive Board including, Ellie Proussaloglou (Alpha Delta Pi), Tony Jiang (Phi Delta Theta), Nathalie Herrand (Omega Phi Beta), and Katharine Bodnar (Delta Gamma). Serena Dai is the recently elected Order of Omega president for the 2012-2013 school year.
