Questions to Ask Recruiters at the Career Fair

When the recruiter asks, “Now do you have any questions?”, it is important to have a few prepared. It shows you’re interested in the company and are serious about your career plans.

Tailor the questions you ask to your career interests and goals. Don’t ask questions just for the sake of asking questions—make sure it is information that you need. Also, try to avoid asking questions that are answered in the company’s annual report or employment brochure. Recruiters know when you haven’t done your homework!

Strategic Comeback Questions
These questions are designed to give job-seekers the chance to respond to the recruiter’s answer with a positive spin on how you perfectly fit (and ideally exceed) what the company is looking for in an employee.

Examples:
- What kinds of skills and experience do you look for in the employees you hire?
- What are the characteristics of your most successful employees?
- Are graduate degrees important to advancing within your organization? Which ones?
- Which courses or experiences do you suggest to be a successful candidate?

Key Company Information Questions
These questions are designed to provide you with critical inside information you need to know when making a decision about the attractiveness of each potential employer. Remember, a job fair is a two-way street and you should be evaluating these companies as much as they are evaluating you.

Examples:
- Are there specific career tracks within the organization? In other words, what can a typical employee (for the position I am seeking) hired in your division expect to be doing 2, 5, or 10 years after hiring?
- What is your organization's culture like?
- For how many years does the typical employee stay with the company?
- Are there opportunities for ongoing training through your organization?
- Do you expect your employees to relocate? How much travel is involved?

Strategic Planning Questions
These questions are designed to give the job-seeker more information and knowledge about the hiring process for each particular employer.

Examples:
- What kind of entry-level positions (or internships) exist within your organization?
- Does your company hire on a continual basis or just at certain times of the year?
- How long does the hiring process take? What does it consist of?
- What percent of applicants are eventually hired? What is the retention rate?

Recruiter Information Questions
Some experts advise not asking the recruiter personal questions relating to his or her job, but especially if the recruiter is an alum of your university — or you have some other personal connection — these questions are fine. Even if there is no connection, these questions can be asked — and their answers can provide you with some critical insights.

Examples:
- What made you choose this company and why do you stay?
- How long have you been with the company?
- What’s the one thing that most surprised you about this company?
Questions to Ask Recruiters at the Career Fair (cont.)

Strategic Comeback Questions
These questions are designed to give job-seekers the chance to respond to the recruiter’s answer with a positive spin on how you perfectly fit (and ideally exceed) what the company is looking for in an employee.

Example:
What kinds of skills and experience do you look for in the employees you hire?

Now You Try it
Develop 3-4 effective questions relating to a question type.
1.

2.

3.

4.